Some Object From Above Smashed Neon Church Sign

Vandalism has been almost entirely ruled out as the cause of a smashed neon sign at the Pleasant View Baptist Church on Legion Drive.

"The object that damaged the sign," said Rev. Ralph Cook, the church's pastor, "was apparently very large and came from above."

The damage, a single foot-wide hole through both panes of the sign, was discovered Wednesday morning.

"I don't think it was vandals," Rev. Cook said Thursday night, "because the object entered the sign about eight feet above the ground and obviously fell from high above."

"Besides," he added, "vandals would probably have not stopped at just one hole, and we couldn't find any rocks or bricks anywhere near the sign."

"We don't have any vague idea as to what caused the damage," he said. "It remains a complete mystery to us."

WHAT DID IT? Rev. Ralph Cook, pastor of the Pleasant View Baptist Church on Legion Drive, observes the damage that was done to the Church's neon sign Tuesday night. Vandalism has been ruled out as a cause of the damage, although it is not known for certain how it was caused. (Times-News Photo — Richard Titley)
